Urban Planning and the Housing Market
Nicole Gurran, Glen Bramley, 2017-05-31 This book re-examines the role of urban policy and planning in relation to the housing market in an era of global uncertainty and change. The relationship between planning and the housing market is a contested problem across research, policy and practice. Problems with housing supply and affordability in many nations have been linked to planning system constraints while the global financial crisis has raised new questions about the role of urban planning, regulation and processes in responding to housing market trends. With reference to international cases from the United Kingdom, the United States, Ireland, Hong Kong and Australia, the book examines how different systems of urban planning and governance address complex and dynamic housing market trends. It also offers practical guidance on how urban planning can support an efficient supply of appropriate and affordable homes in preferred locations. A detailed study which explains and decodes the workings of the planning system and housing market, this book will be of particular interest to scholars of human geography and urban planning as well as housing policy makers and practitioners. Urban Infrastructure
K. Wellman, Marcus Spiller, 2012-07-30 The magnitude of investment, the long time frames involved and the influence of pre-existing infrastructure on urban infrastructure provision make a co-ordinated approach to forward planning, policy development and implementation essential. There are major challenges in making decisions on urban infrastructure and getting management structures and processes in place. Getting it right generates long-term dividends; getting it wrong involves major costs often borne by taxpayers. Urban Infrastructure: Finance and Management is posited on a strong belief that the physical structure of cities and the efficiency of infrastructure services delivered are driven by efficiencies within individual infrastructure sectors. Lessons learnt across these sectors and the ability to co-ordinate and integrate sectors to generate economies of scale. This necessitates an interdisciplinary approach integrating knowledge from finance, governance, planning and management as well as the characteristics of the individual urban infrastructure sectors involved. Here it is not only about getting the initial decisions and policy settings right but also ensuring effective implementation. A major theme running through the book is the nature of institutions and the governance structures responsible for delivery and management of urban infrastructure and the decision-making processes involved. The editors have taken a deliberately pragmatic approach to the finance and management of urban infrastructure: chapters are cross-sectorial and present both theory and practice. This book is for students and practitioners in policy planning, urban management, infrastructure finance
